Crowds bigger than ever for Mollykett Day

It wasn't sunny and it wasn't hot, but last Saturday proved an excellent day anyway for Bethel's midsummer festival—Mollykett Day.

Named in honor of fabled Indian Princess Mollykett, the day brought together hordes of people from western Maine and as far south as North Carolina and as far north as Canada and as far east as the British Isles. Penny York represented Princess Mollykett.

Under the general supervision of the Bethel Lions Club, most area organizations—and private enterprises as well—look part to make it a fun day.

How many people were in town for the all-day affair? No one was counting noses on Main Street during the parade or on the Common during the Ronald McDonald show or the woodsmen's competition or the fiddler's contest. But some numbers are indicative of the crowds.

• The Bethel Rotary Club, which sponsored the woodsmen's competition and served clam and chicken dinners to visitors seated comfortably at picnic tables under a huge tent, sold over 700 dinners.

• The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce sold 500 lobster rolls.

• Sally Smith, who brought her Sally's Sweets mobile restaurant from Rte. 26 to the Common for the day, had a line outside the serving window from morning until closing, at 11:15 p.m. She used over 100 pounds of onions for her onion rings and dished out ice cream totalling 35

SAD #44 valuation up by 8 percent next year

State valuation for the five towns of SAD #44 will be increased by 8 percent next year. The municipal assessors of all Oxford County towns will meet July 25 at the Paris town office to discuss the valuations. Any objections to the proposed valuations must be made at that time.

The valuations, which will be the basis for state funding for the SAD #44 schools and also the basis for allocation of the next school assessments, are as follows (with this year's valuations in parentheses):

- Andover: $38,650,000 ($38,200,000);
 - Bethel: $48,850,000 ($45,950,000);
 - Greenwood: $21,300,000 ($19,850,000);
 - Newry: $18,250,000 ($13,250,000);
 - Woodstock: $25,000,000 ($23,500,000).
- Other area towns also saw their valuations increased. For example:
- Gilead: $5,300,000 ($5,100,000);
 - Upton: $4,650,000 ($4,300,000);
 - West Paris: $17,650,000 ($15,750,000).

A RECORD-BREAKING CROWD LINED MAIN STREET for the traditional Mollykett Day parade Saturday. It was led by the American Legion and contained a large number of floats.

Union presents its side—Boise gets court order

Complaining that press coverage of the strike has mainly presented the views of the company, UPTU Local #900 brought in a public relations specialist from the international union and held a press conference yesterday (Tuesday) at the American Legion, in Rumford.

Gordon Brehm, executive assistant to the president of the international union, in Nashville, Tenn., lambasted Boise Cascade for trying to break the local union by proposing a contract that would restrict the amount of control the union could exercise over the plant workers.

"What the company is trying to do is take away all the rights the union has won over the last 40 years," he said.

The company's "final offer" does away with the old system of job classifications whereby a specific job had to be performed by a specific classification, and if there were no work for that classification at a given time, that worker could not be ordered to work at a different job. The company wants to institute a flexible work arrangement, whereby various classifications could be ordered to do

Strikers and Boise square off as would-be workers sign up

Striking workers and would-be workers faced off at the gates of Oxford County Fairgrounds this week as the latter lined up to apply for the jobs that union workers at Boise have walked away from.

As the job applicants drove through the main gate of the fairground—heavily guarded by local, county and state police—union picketers jeered at them with shouts of "Scab!" as well as more colorful epithets.

After the applicants finished filling out forms and had a short interview, they were directed to a side gate by the security forces hired by Boise. At that gate, they were again met by picketers. Some rocks were thrown, some cars were kicked, but—generally—most of the abuse was verbal.

According to Boise spokeswoman Carol Stillar, the total number of job applicants from Friday to Tuesday was 1,086—not nearly as many as Boise wanted. The Rumford-based paper mill is seeking to hire a workforce of nearly 1,200 hourly employees. The spokeswoman said additional applications will be taken later this week in the Bangor area.

Since the strike by the members of the United Paperworkers International

NTL continues

Another wave of participants and staff members arrived in Bethel on Sunday and Monday for programs in the summer sessions of NTL Institute. With persons already here who are continuing into their second week of workshops, the NTL population this week numbers about 200.

A new series of Sunrise Seminars has also started, with presentations already having been made by Fred Miller and Ava Schindler, and by Crescencio Torres. NTL staff members, who are a new group each week for the changing programs, present these informal sessions at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday mornings. They are open to all interested persons in the Bethel area.

For the remainder of the week, the seminars will cover the following topics:

- Thursday—The Centering Experience, with Tobe Reisel, Sherman Kingsbury, and the staff of the Centering Laboratory.

- Friday—Integrating Wisdom of the East and West, with Ron, Peggy, and Larry Lippitt.
- Saturday—Breathing, with Charles Seashore.

Selectmen approve sewer plant budget

The Bethel Board of Selectmen Monday night approved a budget of $95,000 for the wastewater treatment plant.

Last fiscal year the sewer plant had expenses of $88,000.

Revenues for the sewer plant come basically from user fees, and the budget is not set by town meeting.

The selectmen also approved a sewer tie-in for the Carriage House Condominiums—the condo conversion at the former Bethel Inn garages, on Mason Street.

The tie-in will be a six-inch building line connecting to the six-inch line on Spring Street. An existing four-inch line in the building, which ties into the Mason Street sewer line, will be capped off.

The condo conversion envisions eight units in the former garages; six two-

The gold-plated chancellor, part 2

When the trustees of the University of Maine hired Jack Freeman for the job of chancellor in May, they assured the taxpayers of the state that the man was worth every penny of the $114,000 salary they had promised him—plus $1,000-a-month housing allowance. A small price to pay for top-notch educational management, the trustees said.

As things turned out, the only thing Dr. Freeman was able to manage was to write a letter of resignation, after two weeks on the job.

The educational expert was careful to resign just before his previous position—as vice-president of the University of Pittsburgh—went out for bid.

He turned in his resignation and was out of the state almost before the trustees realized it.

Now the big question, they say, is whether or not to pay him for the two weeks he spent learning that the state university system is on a limited budget.

Actually, that is not the big question at all. The big question is whether or not the trustees will realize that "expensive" doesn't mean "good." Let's get a chancellor that cares about improving the state university, not one that cares about feathering his own nest. bfw

A note from the publisher

Another Mollycoddett Day has passed into the history books. And a wonderful day it was. The crowds were thicker than ever, the food more varied than usual, and the weather cooperative.

Since it's a summer festival, it could've been a bit warmer, but no one complained. And, incidentally, the early morning drizzle ended by the time the first races began, shortly after 8:30 a.m.

The various local civic organizations did a bang-up job in bringing the day to fruition. These groups were the Lions, the Rotary, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, the Bethel Area Health Center, and the Bethel Fire Department. Sunday River and the Bethel Inn footed a number of expenses associated with the day's events, such as the fireworks and the Last Straw Band. Local police Bob Stearns, Norm Clanton, Crawford Perry and (newest policeman) Terry Perry did a good job of keeping open containers away from the festivities and keeping traffic moving.

Trash continues to be a problem on the Common during Mollycoddett Day, especially as the event draws larger and larger crowds. Trash containers overflow, and trash is spread all over the Common. A number of people have suggested renting dumpsters and placing them at each end of the Common so that food stands can quickly and easily get rid of trash build-up. It sounds like a good suggestion. Another good suggestion is for the organizers to provide portable toilets for those who hang around the Common all day.

Speaking of suggestions, Alanson Cummings has suggested to me a number of times that if I and when my wife and I go sailing on Lake Champlain again I take along my camera.

Mary and I sailed on that wonderful waterway last summer, and, upon returning, I reported on the number of French Canadians on the lake, and the paucity (often total absence) of clothing between Canadian flesh and American sun. Alanson contends that a photo is worth a thousand words.

Mary and I head off on vacation the end of this week for a week of sailing on Lake Champlain, and I will pack my camera. Who knows, maybe with luck I'll get a photo of Champy, the lake's resident monster.

See you all after vacation. And remember to keep a sharp eye out for summer.

Actually, to be fair about it, local farmers were able to make hay last month, and the berries ripened pretty much on time. Speaking of which, if you're a lover of raspberries—as I am—you know that there aren't many places where you can pick your own. One such place in our area is Coulthards, on the East Buckfield Road.

I don't usually give free publicity to advertisers, but Judy and Brian Coulthard are such exceptional people, and their berry patches so exquisite, that I would not be doing any job of sharing information if I didn't tell you that you're missing a lot if you miss taking a trip to their place for raspberries and healthy atmosphere.

Local gardeners have not been as fortunate as the Coulthards. People talk about planting their gardens two, three

Open ground work bids for Tri-Town barn

Bids were opened Friday night at a building committee meeting for the ground work for the Tri-Town Rescue barn, to be located near Trap Corner in West Paris.

Ray McAllister of Sumner had the low bid for the cement foundation work at $5,000. Dragon Cement has donated a portion of the actual cement for the barn. Don and Calvin Mason of West Paris had the low bid for the ground excavation work at $7,500. This will include a shallow dug well on the site. The excavation work is expected to begin this week.

The chairman of the building committee, Warren Emery, was delighted with the bids as they all came in well below the projected amounts, especially when the first estimates planned on town water. The water main would have to be extended to the site for town water. Mr. Emery felt it would be cheaper to have a dug well, as water is very accessible on the site. The rescue barn will have to have a pump to pump up the septic to a higher location, as the ground water is so high.

The estimated cost for the total construction, including ground preparation is $70,000. The Tri-Town building committee has asked vocational Region 11 to build the building in the fall, saving an estimated $15,000. The service has already set aside $35,000 from previous donations for the building. The auxiliary has already raised $10,500 this year for the barn, reaching half of its total $20,000 goal for the cost of the building. Fund raising events in the future include the community birthday calendars in August, a variety show Aug. 16 and 17, and raffles.

The vocational students will start construction of the two-bay ambulance barn and training room. Tri-Town Rescue plans to be in the building for its sixth anniversary, April 1, 1987.

The 36 by 52 feet building will house one ambulance, one equipment van, one training/meeting room, an office, and have both kitchen and laundry facilities for auxiliary functions. The plans, drawn by Warren Emery of West Paris, include storage shelves for both training supplies and ambulance equipment. Currently all training materials are moved to a different location for the monthly training meetings and on-going first aid courses.

The ambulance now housed in Bryant Pond in the town garage will stay there, to continue coverage to both Bryant Pond and Greenwood.

Tri-Town will discontinue use of the old fire station in West Paris upon completion of the rescue barn and house the West Paris ambulance at the new Trap Corner site.

and four times. Arthur Cummings, who cultivates a large garden in Bethel, says this summer's garden looks to be the best in 50 years. I hope fall harvest proves him wrong, but it certainly has been a strange summer.

Of course, people have been saying that about winters lately as well. It doesn't get as cold as it used to, people say.

Arthur Gauthier was in the office the other day—not much of a trip for him since the family moved from Bear River to Bethel—and was wondering aloud whether the winters have gotten less severe or the memories less accurate. When you're driving in an open wagon and living in a house without central heating, the winters do tend to seem more severe, says Arthur.

UNION PRESENTS ITS SIDE

various job tasks. (See separate story.) "Flexibility is not what is at issue here," the UPIU's Brehm contended. "The life of the local union is what is at issue here. What they're asking us to do is give up our rights to represent our members."

He said Boise managers felt the time was ripe for trying to break the union because of an anti-union administration in Washington. "In the process, they've hurt this community a great deal. ... These corporations that operate all over the world have no regard for the communities they operate in."

The community of Rumford has been tense this week, with numerous incidents between strikers and those crossing picket lines. Rumford Police have had their hands full and have been putting on extra manpower at night. Tuesday afternoon company lawyers obtained a temporary restraining order from superior court, in Auburn, to restrain the picketers. This is similar to the order they obtained when the strike first began.

Mr. Brehm admitted that the strikers have been trying to intimidate anyone believed to be crossing the picket lines. "Obviously we have harassed them to a certain extent," he said. "We don't think anyone has a moral right to steal our jobs."

Mr. Brehm discounted the Boise claim that the mill jobs are now vacant and will be given to new workers. "They hope our members will get scared and go running back when they see these scabs being interviewed."

He refused to accept the company's contention that strikers must either come back to work under the terms of the "final offer" or consider their jobs lost. "There is no final offer until there is an agreement," he said. "They're going to have to change their minds if they're going to end this dispute. They're supposed to be bargaining in good faith."

Gary Cook, who was sent from Jay by the UPIU headquarters to represent the international union during the strike, noted that the local union membership is firmly behind the leadership in rejecting the final offer. At Monday's union meeting, about 1,000 members showed up, and only four voted to reconsider the company's final offer, which was soundly rejected July 3.

The trouble with the company's final offer, he said, is that the company could order a worker to do anything within a given area. The jobs in any given area are too different for one person to be able to do them all. It would be unsafe. "We find it impossible to shuffle workers between such different jobs," he said.

The company also wants the sole right to decide who works overtime and in what jobs.

He did not specify what sort of flexible arrangement the union leadership would accept. He said any flexible job assignment must take into consideration training and like types of work.

He said the big difference between the current strike and previous strikes at Boise is that this time the company is out to bust the union. "The company has taken the position that it's going to hire scabs. I think that shows what the company is doing: union busting."

He showed reporters a July 15 letter from the company to the union stating that the company would unilaterally implement the "final offer" this Monday (July 21). The letter also specifies that portions of the final offer contract will not be implemented. The portions being held in abeyance are those portions concerning the union.

Thus, the company will not force new workers to join the union after 30 days in the mill; the company will not deduct union dues from salary checks; the company will not utilize an arbitrator to settle unresolved grievances; the company will not abide by the "no lockout" provision of the unsigned contract.

Mr. Cook termed this sort of selective implementation of a contract completely illegal.

He also noted that the low turnout of applicants for the jobs of striking workers reflects the sympathy of most people for the cause of the strikers. "There aren't many people low enough to cross our picket line."

Those pickets could be in place for a long time, Mr. Brehm indicated. He said the international union would pay strike benefits of $50 a week "indefinitely" to the strikers.

Ed Gorham, secretary-treasurer of the Maine AFL-CIO, added that if the company actually fills strikers' jobs with new workers, the strikers might be eligible for unemployment benefits as well.

LOCAL RESIDENT WENDY CROSS was one of over 1,000 job applicants who applied to take over Boise jobs abandoned by striking paperworkers. Ms. Cross said she realized it would be dangerous to cross picket lines, but she wanted the high-paying job nevertheless.

CROWDS BIGGER THAN EVER

tubs. (Each tub contains three gallons of ice cream.)

Hugh and Lin Chapman, owners of the Edelweiss Country Store, were happy someone else was also scooping ice cream, because they were scooping cones as fast as they could, plus selling sodas and other beverages. They had over 1,100 customers during the day, and their sales were up 25 percent over last year, which had also been a record-breaker.

Best guesses put the crowd at about 5,000.

The day began with a slight drizzle, which was just fine for the foot racers. It was difficult to determine winners in the 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer races because of confusion among racers as to the route. Thus, some racers took one route and some another. Some fast finishers, however, included Sara Pickett, 15, of Welchville, who was the apparent winner in the women's division of the 5-kilometer race. Sara Wiseman, of Chapel Hill, N.C., was second.

Bob Poirier, of Mechanic Falls, was the apparent winner of the men's division in the 5-kilometer. Second was Robbie McAllister, a native of Northern Ireland who is summering on Round Pond, in Locke Mills. (Fifteen-year-old Robbie is spending the summer with the Blair family, of Holliston, Mass., who are hosting two Catholic boys and two Protestant boys from Northern Ireland.)

Dick Holsington, of West Farmington, Mathew Isham, of Bethel, and Kevin McDonald, of Lovell, finished the 10-kilometer race in a dead heat, holding hands in a show of unity instead of competition.

Mr. Holsington's daughter also competed, as the youngest runner in the children's 1-mile race. Finishing an enthusiastic last, she exclaimed as she crossed the finish line, "I ran fast!"

Billy Boyle was the fastest boy in the 1-mile event, while Stacey Snyder was the fastest girl.

At the woodsmen's competition, Don Lambert, of Quebec City, won the overall championship as "woodsman-of-the-day." (See separate story for the complete list of winners of the various events.)

Mariah Boelsma, 5, of the Bog Road, had the jumping frog at the Western Maine Frog Jumping Contest, held alongside the Dr. Moses Mason House. Her leaper compiled a score of 117 inches in the three-jump contest. Mariah got the frog in Paul Marcolini's pond, on the Grover Hill Road, and returned him to the pond at the end of the contest. She won herself a crisp $10 bill.

The best float in the parade—whose theme was "Notable Inventions," was judged to be the airplane, put together by the women at Prim's Pharmacy. The highlight of the parade, however, was bedroom, two-floor units, and two one-bedroom, two-floor units.

In other business, the selectmen discussed the question of when to use the Bethel ambulances as back-up for neighboring ambulance services, and how much to charge. It is the belief of the board that neighboring services may become overburdened as the result of taking on much of the area that had been previously covered by Bethel Ambulance.

When the Town of Bethel raised its fees last spring, Upton, Newry and Albany (the county commissioners) opted to sign up with cheaper services.

The selectmen will discuss the matter further at a later date.

The selectmen signed a lease agreement to rent the small side office in the town office to Richard Penley for six months for a sum of $900. Mr. Penley will be responsible for his own electric bills and will pay one-eighth of the town office fuel bills.

The board approved new general assistance rules and regulations, as mandated by the state. The new rules do not differ significantly from the old rules, except insofar as how to calculate income of an applicant for assistance. Previously, income had been calculated based on the 30-day period prior to the date of application. From now on, income will be calculated based on the 30-day period following the date of application.

This past fiscal year, the Town assisted 23 applicants, at a cost of $3,322. The bulk of this was for medicines ($1,551). The second-largest amount went for rental assistance ($935).

The year previous, the Town gave assistance to 26 applicants, at a cost of $3,959.

Town Meeting appropriated $4,000 for general assistance this fiscal year.

Ronald McDonald, sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Winner of the Nurses' Bed Race was the Bethel Area Health Center. Tri-Town Rescue was second, and the B.E.A.R.S. was third.

In the afternoon, the Bethel Fire Department held a demonstration of the jaws-of-life they are raising money to buy. And the Mollycoddett Mixers demonstrated square dances.

In the late afternoon, the fiddlers' contest was won by Jody Maranchie, of Westfield, Mass. A total of 20 fiddlers entered the competition.

The evening was capped off by a fireworks display, courtesy of the Bethel Inn and Sunday River Ski Resort. This was preceded and followed by music by the Last Straw Band, composed of Jay Roy, on guitar and vocals, Tammy Roy on bass and vocals, David Blood, on rhythm guitar, Arnell Jones, on drums, Billy Stowell and Norman Gagnon also joined in, on harmonicas. The band was sponsored by the Skitway, The Inn, and other local businesses.

What the "final offer" contract looks like

With Boise threatening to hire a new workforce and put it to work under terms of the "final offer" given striking UPIU workers July 2, it is of interest to know what this "final offer" contract looks like.

A Boise official described the "final offer" this way: "The Boise Cascade economic offer is among the best offered in the industry over the past few years. One reason for this is that we realize we're buying some things, such as Flexible Work Concept."

The flexible work concept, which would give Boise more control over assigning workers to various jobs, is at the heart of the union's discontent with the contract offer.

Here are pertinent parts of the "final offer."

- Term: 3 years
- Wages: A lump sum payment of $1,000 upon acceptance of the contract by the workers; a salary increase of 50 cents an hour during the first year of the contract and 3 percent increases the second and third years;

- Accident and sickness payments of $190 a week the first year, $200 the second year and $205 the third year;
- Current employees will not be laid off as a result of any aspects of the new contract;

- Overtime pay will be at the rate of 1.5 times straight time pay for any and all overtime, including Sunday and holiday work;
- Continuation of 12 paid holidays a year; Unused holidays can be exchanged for straight time pay;

- Vacation pay to be paid at the rate of 40-hour weeks, instead of the current 48-hour weeks;
- Vacation length: 1-3 years employment, 1 week vacation; 3-10 years, 2 weeks; 10-15 years, 3 weeks; 15-20 years, 4 weeks; 20-25 years, 5 weeks; 25 years and over, 6 weeks;

- Lunch periods scheduled to accommodate production and maintenance needs;
- Flexible work assignments will modify job qualification, job changes and promotion chart changes to accommodate operating needs; operators will be expected to do minor repairs and other work they are capable of performing [and not performing under the present contract].

"Employees may be assigned to duties outside of their traditional job duties from time to time as operating conditions warrant. An employee may be assigned to any task in their designated area if not needed on their operation. Assignments may be made outside of the area to perform work of an emergency nature." (There are five designated areas: paper machines #2-#12, paper machine #15, pulp, power & water, wood.)

Boise spokesman John Shorb, responding to the concern of union members that they will lose pay if assigned to a job that pays less than the one they permanently hold, said: "The employee (temporarily assigned to a new task) will receive his regular rate of pay or the rate of pay for duties assigned, whichever is higher."

Mr. Shorb pointed out that a number of contracts signed this year with UPIU locals at competing paper plants in other states have language similar to "flexible assignment," such as, "team concept" and "operator flexibility."

Boise officials contend that the flexible work concept is necessary because, "Updated contracts in competing mills have resulted in the Rumford mill being at a competitive disadvantage."

The new contract would, these officials contend, "eliminate restrictive work procedures, penalty payments (by the company), and pay for time not worked."

STRIKERS & BOISE SQUARE OFF

officials have also complained publicly that Boise is trying to negotiate with the rank-and-file workers through correspondence, instead of dealing with the union negotiating team.

Management has complained that union officials are not telling the rank-and-file the whole story about the final contract offer. They claim that a number of union workers have crossed the picket line and come back to work under the provisions of the new, unratified contract. Union officials concede that five workers have left the union fold and gone back to work.

One of these is Norman Cormier. Soon after he went back to work, vandals painted the word "SCAB" on the sides of his house. But whoever did the damage to the house chose the house of the wrong Norman Cormier. The man who went through the picket lines lives in West Peru; the man whose house got defaced lives in Mexico.

Union officials say they offered to repaint the man's house and that he declined the offer, saying he would repaint it himself. One union official said he believed the company was behind the defacing of the man's house.

With the company moving ahead to sign up a new workforce, union leaders began moving themselves to solidify their ranks. Last Thursday, a solidarity march through Rumford drew over 1,000 marchers. And pep rally-type meetings have been held for the wives of strikers and for the union members themselves. The resolve of the workers seems strong, with most of them saying they believe the company is bluffing about hiring new workers to replace them.

Job applicants at the fairgrounds were quite aware of the anger among the strikers directed toward anyone they considered to be taking away their jobs. One applicant, Wendy Cross, of Locke Mills, said she arrived at the fairgrounds long before the pickets were in place, and she conceded the dangers involved with trying to get a job at the struck mill. "I might get a bloody nose crossing the picket line," she said. But the idea of earning a minimum of $10 an hour after one year was a powerful inducement to face a picket line.

Boise is offering job applicants starting pay ranging from $7.77 to $14.47 an hour. In addition, there is a shift differential of 19 cents an hour for the evening shift and 28 cents an hour for the night shift. Overtime, which is mandatory, will be paid at time-and-a-half. In addition, there are medical, dental and life insurance benefits. After one year of work, the lowest paid new-hire would have his or her salary raised to $10 an hour, while the highest-paid new-hire would get a salary boost to $18.63 per hour.

This is small potatoes to what Boise is offering experienced people to come back to work. One Rumford shopkeeper tells of a fishing friend of his—retired from Boise—who was offered $2,900 per week to come back to work. Union officials tell of other retired workers being offered up to $50 an hour to help make paper while the strike ensues.

The company claims it is turning out paper using salaried personnel to operate the machines at about half the plant's normal capacity. Striking workers dispute this claim.

Company spokesman Sam Donaldson

NLRB looking into both sides' charges

An official from the National Labor Relations Board regional headquarters, in Boston, is expected to be in Rumford tomorrow (Thursday) to begin looking into charges of unfair labor practices leveled by the company against the union and vice-versa.

NLRB case worker Elizabeth Gempere-line will be in town for the beginning of an investigation that could last 30 days. Her supervisor, Roy Schoenfeld, told The Citizen it will be up to the regional director to decide whether the charges of either side have merit.

The company, in a charge filed July 15 (last Tuesday), complained that the union has refused to bargain in good faith and has coerced and restrained employees from being properly informed about the status of negotiations and the company's offer.

The union, in a charge filed July 17 (last Thursday), complained that the company has refused to bargain in good faith by tendering outlandish proposals and by not seriously considering the union's counter-proposals. Also, the union charged, Boise has been contacting employees directly concerning negotiations and has threatened to hire strikebreakers.

The NLRB's Schoenfeld said only one-third of all charges filed with the agency are found to have merit. If a charge is found to have merit, the regional director issues a formal complaint, which is then given to an administrative law judge for a hearing. If the judge finds that an infraction of labor regulations has occurred, he orders the parties to return the situation to what it was before the offense occurred.

Thus, in the Boise situation, if the NLRB finds that the company did in fact bargain in bad faith, it could order the company to re-open negotiations on a new labor contract, which negotiations the company now considers at impasse.

says the company could begin putting new employees to work as early as next week, after subjecting them to a series of tests and interviews.

While strikers are most angry at the company and at the potential new workers, they are also quite angry at local businesses seen to be supporting the company. They have singled out Sunday River Ski Resort and the Madison Motel as prime targets, for housing the security force and other contract and salary workers brought into the area by Boise.

A poll taken by Channel 6 last week asked viewers whether it was proper for Boise to hire a new workforce to replace the striking workers. Sixty-two percent of the respondents said it was not proper to hire new workers.

On the other hand, aside from union workers, there seems to be little support for the union's position among residents of area towns. As one Oxford businessman said as he motioned towards the picketers at the fairgrounds, "I have no sympathy for those guys."

The low turnout of job applicants for the 1,200 jobs the company says it wants to fill seems to have little to do with job-hunters having sympathy for the strikers. A Buckfield woman, who is a summer replacement and was asked by management to stay on permanently, PICKETERS JEER A MAN DRIVING OUT of the Oxford County Fairgrounds after he filled out an application for a job at the struck Boise Cascade mill, in Rumford.

APPLICANTS FOR THE JOBS VACATED BY STRIKING WORKERS OF BOISE CASCADE, in Rumford, lined up at the Oxford County Fairgrounds this week. Over 1,000 people have applied so far to replace the strikers.

declined the offer. "I don't want to come out of my house some morning and find my tires slashed," she said.

Picketers regularly shout to job applicants and others crossing the picket line such warnings as: "We know who you are. We'll find you. You won't be protected all the time."

These veiled threats of violence momentarily burst into real violence as picketers and Boise guards clashed while the company was trying to bring job applicants from the Mexico town office to the mill for further interviewing. Both the union and the company blamed one another for the outbreak.

Meanwhile, at Boise's mill in Sheldon Springs, Vt., about 200 UPIU members went on strike last week in a contract dispute. A Boise spokesman said the dispute was similar to the one in Rumford—that is, the main sticking point was the company's proposed flexible job assignment clause.

Boise officials at the Rumford plant had attempted to institute a degree of flexibility in job assignments back in August 1984, under the old contract. The program, called the "Maintenance Improvement Program" or MIP, dictated that workers in certain job classifications would perform maintenance work in other job classifications as well as in their own. The effect of the consolidation of maintenance tasks was to eliminate six job classifications.

The union filed a grievance against the procedure, arguing that the initiative by management breached the labor contract. A federal arbitrator agreed. Boise was ordered to re-institute the previous maintenance system and pay $350,000 to workers who would have earned that in overtime had not other workers been performing their jobs.

The flexibility clause in Boise's final offer to the union goes even further than the MIP in re-defining areas of maintenance responsibility.

By VIVA WHITMAN

Looks like it might be a good Saturday after a cool night. Doesn't seem right to have to start the furnace in the morning but too cool to take showers and so forth without it. Seems as though we haven't had much hot weather and when we do get a hot day, everyone is roasting.

Lawrence finally got his mower to go with the rototiller and he and Russell got the grass mowed around the place. The rag weed was getting ready to blossom and throw pollen into the air so am glad they got the job done. Russell had to quite a lot of hand mowing around the edge of the woods and around rocks but got it done and is glad to have it out of the way. Russell pulled one row of beets and we got the greens ready for the freezer. He has planted some more beets and transplanted some broccoli that he had. The garden looks better than it did but the beans still look sick and the first cucumbers that were planted look as though they were on their last legs. Don't know what kind of bugs are at the garden this year but they plan to have their way with it.

Last Monday, Russell took me to Lewiston to see a different doctor to see if he could find any way to help me where my muscles are concerned. It was a hot day and we most melted. Didn't find out too much as yet but had to go for more tests and blood work on Thursday. In fact, we spent the larger part of the day on Thursday, at the hospital waiting for one test or another. As Russell says, when one has to go for tests etc., it is a waiting game. Tuckers anyone all out. Back to Monday, after the doctor was through with me, Russell and I went to pick up my granddaughters at their babysitter's home. He drove me over to my daughter's home and I stayed the night there taking care of the girls that evening. The doctor told me not to lift anything but did you ever take care of a year old child that you didn't have to lift? I haven't and as their mother was in Presque Isle and their father had to work till midnight, I had to do what had to be done. Kariann is walking around more all the time so I don't carry her if it isn't necessary. Courtney doesn't require lifting as she can climb where she needs to go. That makes it easier for me to care for her. Kariann will soon be climbing as she tries to get onto the sofa, just doesn't have legs that are quite long enough as yet. We made out to lunch and Tuesday morning, Michael and girls brought me home. They stayed to lunch and I am sure that helped Mike as he had errands to do on the way home. It was hot on Tuesday so Russell did some putting around inside but in the evening, he rototilled the garden where he had pulled the beets so he could replant it. Had to make my trip to North Bridgton on Wednesday to see my doctor there and get my back tended to. It was time for allergy shots, also. Seems as though I spend as much time at the doctors as at home and wish it wasn't necessary but that's the way it goes for some of us.

Lawrence has been taking his granddaughter to Lewiston a time or two to sell the fir boughs she has gotten ready to go to some firm that buys them. He has taken her two times so far. It is a way for her to earn a little money and keeps her busy. Lawrence has someone here cutting his logs into boards, also. Never saw a machine like that but it is a good way to get the logs saved into boards and not have to truck them some place.

Thursday was Lawrence's birthday and had a call in the morning to see if we didn't want to come up to their place for some ice cream and cake. I couldn't have the pleasure of helping eat the ice cream and cake as Russell could not enjoy the visit with all the family members that were there.

Peggy came home from Massachusetts on Friday and will go back again on Monday. Her daughter, Myrna and husband Whitey were visitors for a short while on Friday afternoon.

I mustn't forget to say that we had special callers one day this week. A good friend, who I keep in touch with, and her husband, happened to be up this way so called in. Russell and I had just started to have lunch and tried to get them to join us but they had already had lunch. However, we let dishes wait after we had eaten and had a nice but short visit with Christine and Don Haskell of Hollis Center. I got to know her as she and Mother got acquainted by way of pieces of patch work for quilts a long time ago. I visited her with Mother and Russell a time or two and have kept in touch with her since Mother passed away. In fact, I have been to her house to visit a couple of times since Mother went. She is a friend worth having and has lots of health problems as I do so we have a lot in common. She likes African Violets so gave her a red one that I had started from a leaf. She will have fun watching it grow till it blossoms.

Speaking of African Violets, I want to thank the lady who gave me the nice plants I got last Saturday at her home. They are different than what I had so I was happy to get them. I gave my grand niece some of the violets I had two or three of, and made her happy. I have quite a variety now and they are so pretty. They have the honor of adorning our large front bow window and do a good job of it, too.

Hopefully, our peas will be ready to pick soon. They are later than last year due to the weather, I guess. The hot spell we had gave them a good boost and they look real good now. Russell has done so much work in the garden, trying to get rid of the bugs and get the plants to grow. It is hard work and takes a lot of time and effort. Lots of patience, also. I enjoyed reading Louise Loring's writing this week. When I lived on the Waterford Road, I had a nice experience with woodchucks and haven't forgotten it. This was after my husband had died and I had the care of the garden. Raised some good gardens by myself if I do say so. My son did some of the rototilling but I did a lot of it, also. This particular year, there were three nice fat woodchucks that wanted the garden stuff as bad as I did and were determined to get it. I had a .22 rifle in the house and hadn't ever used before but with no one else to do the job, I used the rifle. I hit one of the chucks as they went down by the stone wall below the garden one day. Opening the back door warmed them that I was around, I had tried throwing rocks etc. at them but they always got out of the way and it made me mad. I decided they weren't going to have all the garden. They had chewed a lot off on the end of the garden farthest away from the house and I didn't like it. One day, I saw the chuck nearer the house and eating his or her fill from my shell beans. I got the rifle and very carefully went out the front door and around the house to the garden. The chuck didn't see me soon enough and as luck would have it, I shot the chuck. The third one I had seen didn't appear any more. Guess he thought it safer somewhere else.

Louise, try walking your dog around the garden at night, if you have one, and also, instead of trying a scarecrow in the garden, hang a shirt that has been worn

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE DAVIS

Esther Davis and Vera Buck were at Olive's home for red flannel hash, corn and spinach, followed by a sweetheart cake in honor of Esther's birthday which falls on Tuesday.

Sunday I went to Bridgton to see my sister, Lillian Harmon, who is home from the hospital. She is doing well. Her operation has all healed.

Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews, Bridgton, came over and took me with them to West's in the Berlin area, shopping.

Goldie Mason encountered a bear while driving home. He crossed the road near Vernon Poland's Home. He stood in the road while rolling his head from side to side then went up on the banking and sat down. She drove by and went home.

Mr. and Mrs. Taisto Koskela attended the National Finnish Festival at Berkeley College, Berkeley, Calif., last week. They flew out. Others who went were Hazel Waltanen and Alma Dickson.

Lettie Brooks and I went to Bryant Pond to Alice Hoyt's home where she held a housewares party for the benefit of the Grange. After that we stopped at the Grange Hall where we did a little cleaning up.

Lloyd Merrifield finished mowing the Davis farm this week. A good job done. Vacation Bible School at the Adventist Church will open on July 28. It will be a two week course.

Mr. and Mrs. Loring Strout were at Moosehead Lake over the 4th of July where they visited Mr. Strout's relative Richard Billings.

Esther Davis took me to Lewiston Monday for a check-up with my doctor. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway and Olive Davis were in Shelburne, N.H., Saturday night where they attended Winthrop Grange's 75th anniversary. It was also Neighbor's Night. There were 44 from Maine and 44 from New Hampshire making 88 in attendance. At Porter, Maine is having Neighbor's Night. New Hampshire is invited to meet the Maine Grangers.

that day out by the garden. When we were in Bethel, that is what Russell did and even though the garden was near the woods, the varmints left the garden alone. The smell from a shirt worn the same day and the dog smell left, kept them out. He has hung out his shirt here and changes it each day so the smell is fresh and even though our dog is no longer around, the animals don't come either. It has worked for him and might for you. Worth a try, anyway. Might help you from having to cuss the chucks so much. Hope you try it and it works.

It has been a busy week and haven't gotten things done around the house so guess it is time to say so long till next week and get some work done. Not supposed to lift things and some other things I'm not supposed to do but if I don't do them, they won't get done so will just have to do my best. Take care till next week.

No doubt about it, it is summer now. The black-eyed susans have come into bloom and how they hit the eye with their color; they are so full of sunlight. The field daisies have been with us since early June. The black-eyed susan is a favorite of mine. There is a mildly prickly texture to the stem and leaves. The center florets really are black. They are purplish brown. As time passes they appear much the color, as the outer petals for they produce yellow pollen. I recall one walk to the Verrill farm on Patch Mountain with Ruth back on July 16, 1966. A large meadow was merry with these black-eyes, which were laughing from every corner and keeping up a gay mid-summer carnival in company with the brilliant milkweeds. They seemed to revel in the long days of blazing sunlight. Although now so common in our eastern states, they were brought to us with clover seed from the west.

July usually brings us blazing sun, scorching afternoons, and warm nights. As yet we have had few. We are fortunate in having our house located at the foot of a mountain, for when the sun sets the cool air moves down the mountain into the valley. Because cool air is heavier than warm air, it is somewhat like water flowing down the slope and into the valley. We open our windows so the cool air can push out the warm air, a natural air conditioning arrangement, and this evening is cool. It probably will be another night in the fifties.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Valliere, Barrington, N.H., and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Inman, Benjamin and Meagan, Newmarket, N.H., were guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman at "Grammy's Camp," several days last week.

Teresa, Heather, Abby and Aubrey Inman, spent Saturday night with their grandparents, Milton and Eleanor Inman.

Andover

By LAURA HUTCHINS

Can it be true? Three days of warm summer temperatures in one week!

What an inspiration the garden plants. The warm nights make it appear something must be pushing them up through the ground. At last we can actually see them growing. A few regular peas, several packages of sugar snap peas (those edible pods) and a few packages of beet greens have gone into the freezer. It all helps later with the grocery bill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stinson, East Andover, have received notice of the birth of their first great-grandchild, a great-granddaughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langdon (nee Susan Shafer) of Grand Rapids, Mich. She has been named Stephanie Christine and weighed 8 lbs., 8 ozs. Maternal grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Langdon of Grand Rapids, Mich.

George Judd has returned home after being a surgical patient at the Maine Medical Center.

I regret that I was misinformed regarding chairman for the antique and custom car division of the Aug. 2 Old Home Day Parade. Only Merton Perkins is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins enjoyed a trip to Boothbay Harbor on Sunday, July 13, where they went deep sea fishing aboard "The Yellow Bird." It was most interesting and fun. Although it was not a sunny day we did catch a couple of glimpses of sun through the overcast skies. Nearly everyone on board caught some kind of fish. We came home with four codfish. Others got cod, disk, haddock, hake, ocean perch, mackerel, and Bernard caught one whiting, so small to keep. While on our way out to the fishing area, we came close to a five-masted schooner, "The Jessica," out of London. We were told this was one of the tall ships returning from New York. We got sprinkles out on the ocean, but ran into heavy rain on the way home between Auburn and Rumford.

The two Ladies Aid luncheons have been well attended and successful. Many compliments have been received on the way all eight weeks' menus were advertised at once, so folks could clip out the ad.

The next public supper at the First Congregational Church will be Saturday, July 26, with the usual two settings (5:30 and 6:15). This month's menu features baked beans, a variety of casseroles, cole slaw, home made bread, cream puffs with ice cream and beverage. Hope to see you there.

News is short this week. With the warmer weather, I guess folks are busier. Until next week, stay well and happy.

Calvary Congregational Church
Pastor and Mrs. Grover are on vacation until the end of July. Rev. Roland Lord is filling the pulpit until their return.

Harry Childs stopped by Irene Wilson's on Wednesday. He is a good morale booster she says.

Louisa Croteau has returned to Colorado after a trip East fraught with misadventure starting with the breakdown of her car in Des Moines, Iowa—or was it the melting of the ice cream in the 100 degree plus heat. Airline reservations were made in Colorado by Solon's wife, Christine. Frank Sipe and Paul Croteau took Louisa to Portland on Wednesday to catch her plane only to find the airline had misunderstood and had her booked as arriving from Portland, Oregon. Since there was no other flight she could get that day, they spent the night here and left for Portland again at 5:30 Thursday morning.

Frank and Paul left Saturday after camp here for a couple of weeks though the tent is still set up waiting for some sun to dry it out before folding it up. They plan to stay at White Beach which is near their jobs at Bath Iron Works where they start on Monday.

Sally Smith has her ice cream and snack bar on the Common on Mollycoddett Day. From the time of the parade until after the fireworks, I don't think there was a break in the people lined up. It was pleasing to see her doing so well.

Little Amy Moran needs our help... As a victim of Biliary Atresia, she requires a series of exploratory operations leading to a possible liver transplant.

Little Amy Moran benefit scheduled for July 27

A special barbecue and golf tournament will be held on Sunday, July 27, at The Bethel Inn on behalf of Little Amy Moran, the granddaughter of Bethel residents Amy Farrar and Ray Moran.

Little Amy suffers from Biliary Atresia, a severe liver disorder which can cause cirrhosis, growth failure and early death. She is just a year old and lives in Oklahoma with her parents, Jennifer and Peter Moran, a graduate of Gould Academy.

Little Amy has undergone a series of very expensive exploratory operations leading to the possibility of a liver transplant. The benefit will raise much needed funds to offset the already staggering medical costs.

The barbecue and golf tournament will require a donation of $20 per person but area residents are urged to donate whatever they can.

For further information, please call The Bethel Inn (824-2175) which is sponsoring the event on July 27 and other fund raising efforts.

This month's training has been approved by Joanne Lee for 2.5 C.E.U. credits, to be used towards recertification of both Ambulance Attendants and E.M.T.'s. All members please save the last Wednesday, not the fourth Wednesday, for training. The topic is immobilization of spinal cord injuries with Chris Hefley as the instructor. The course will start at 7 p.m. July 30 at the site of the new barn. We will have a group photo prior to training.

Safety Tip
This week's column will discuss heat-related illnesses.

The most common, and least serious heat-related problem is heat exhaustion. The typical situation is a person who works hard, sweats a lot and stops exerting. The person's skin is cold and clammy, heart rate is racing, and the person is sweating a lot.

Treatment for this type of heat exposure is to cool the body down and rest the body. The person should drink fluids to replace those lost with sweating. If the fluid has salt in it or if the person eats salty food, it helps keep the body balanced as the lost sweat is also lost body salt.

PROJECTS UNDERWAY AT EAST STONEHAM CHURCH

Friends and members of the East Stoneham Church are supporting projects that will enhance the building. A ramp is currently being built that will make the entrance to the vestry more accessible to those coming to church services and suppers. Funds from Vesta Nelson's Memorial will buy some of the materials and a friend of the church is generously donating labor. Any financial help for materials will be appreciated.

Last summer funds were raised to paint the exterior of the building and the sanctuary. The exterior was completed and the contractor has agreed to do the sanctuary this summer.

Progress of these projects can be viewed at the baked bean supper July 31, from 5 to 7 p.m. Frances Adams, Arlene Merrill and Mary Grover are chairing the supper.

WHAT BETTER PLACE TO WATCH A PARADE FROM THAN A FIRE ENGINE? And these kids obviously enjoyed the special treat.

TIM KORHONEN LEADS HIS OX TEAM in the parade. The oxen pulled a hay wagon.

ALL OF THE BOOTHS ON THE COMMON did a brisk business, and the Rotary's tag sale tent was no exception. Rotarian Roger Conant makes change for a customer.

THIS FROG-JUMPING CONTESTANT HAD AN AWFUL TIME getting his animal to the starting line (actually, a starting circle) to the great delight of the audience. Peter Rackliffe (who judged the contest) indicates where the frog should be placed. Vicki Rackliffe (who recorded the length of the leaps) stifles a laugh.

Fifteen-year-old Sara Pickett, of Welchville, was the women's champ in the 5-kilometer foot race. Sara attends Oxford Hills High School.

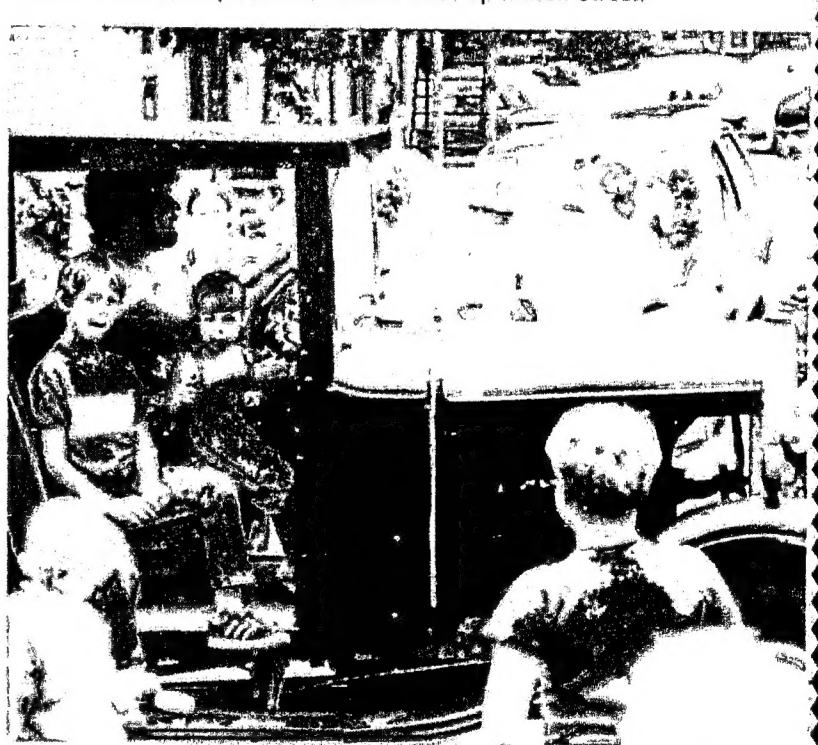

BOB REMINGTON WAS THE RABBIT for kids to follow on the 1-mile run down Broad Street, Main Street and back up Mason Street.

RONALD McDONALD WAS THE HIGHLIGHT of the day for most of the kids. Brought to town by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, he marched in the parade and put on a magic show on the Common.

Leah Deegan stayed busy peeling onions for Sally's Sweets, which had people lined up for onion rings until 11 p.m.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD MARIAH BOELSMA shows off her prize-winning frog, who jumped a total of 117 inches to capture the frog-jumping competition.

Mindy Robinson did stroller duty for her brother Christopher along the parade route as her mother, Yvonne, looked on.

THE B.E.A.R.S. BED RACE TEAM races down Broad Street in the nurses' bed race. The competition was won this year by the Bethel Area Health Center team.

MAINE STREET REALTY fielded a Statue of Liberty float during the parade, whose theme was "Notable Inventions."

A PUFF OF AIR ON HIS FROG'S HINDQUARTERS gets Danny Preble's croaker airborne during the frog-jumping contest.

FINISHING THE 10K RACE IN A DEAD HEAT—on purpose—were Kevin McDonald, of Lovell, Mathew Isham, of Bethel, and Dick Hoisington, of West Farmington.

THE FOUNTAIN WAS FILLED WITH SOAP SUDS to keep kids out of it. The strategy didn't work, as seen above. Some crayfish also found their way into the foam.

North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Mt. Blue State Park Friday. It was a beautiful day and the views were gorgeous. The air conditioner in the truck kept the temperature just right. On their way home they bought live lobsters and had a lobster supper, even had corn on the cob. Didn't think to buy cukes and the ones they planted may not be ready for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vatcher, Andover, Peter, Robin, of Lynn, Mass., spent Friday and Saturday with his sister, Mrs. Rhoda Labbe and Cornie. Robin stayed for a longer visit. They visited Uncle Joe and Aunt Eveline.

Mrs. Marie Cordwell fell on the outside steps at her home July 13. Her sister from Mississippi was visiting her and the nurse who comes daily to check on Earl and prepare him for the day called Joe and he helped get her into the nurse's car and she took her to Norway for x-rays. She had a broken knee and was operated on Monday morning. Two or three years ago she had two knee implants. She is in a hip cast and may come home in two weeks to be in bed for six to eight months. A nurse came from the Norway hospital to care for Earl.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Isley and son, Bobby Jr., 3 1/2 months old, from the Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y., are spending two weeks vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Isley and grandmother, Mrs. Florence Isley. The 99 year old grandma is shirking her tractor riding and barn cleaning to rock and coo to her great grandson, Bobby, and he loves it. Another great grandson, age 11 months, has been visiting the Isleys, and he returned to his home in Wilton Wednesday. Robert is now an assistant branch chief of welding in the Air Force.

Callers at Lawrences: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Albert Downing, Polly Lawrence, Marge Fuller, Norma Reidy, Mione and James Record, Lena Kangas. Blanche Brown and Millie Anderson from Connecticut have been at "Big Rock" visiting Joe Kalnowski. They also called on the Lawrences. Doris's surgery has been postponed two weeks.

Paye Abbott is a surgical patient at St. Mary's Hospital and brother-in-law, Jimmy Abbott is still at St. Mary's.

The monthly supper is shaping up well. It is the 26th of July the same date as the bean hole bean supper at Norway, but it has happened that way before. Our old standbys don't forget where they can get a good meal.

HATSTAT - McCABE ENGAGEMENT

Everett and Nellie Hatstat of Albany are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Vickie Sue Hatstat, to Charles W. McCabe, son of James and Lucy McCabe of North Waterford.

Miss Hatstat was a member of the class of 1986 at Telstar Regional High School. Mr. McCabe attended Summer Memorial High School in Sullivan.

Mr. McCabe is employed in woods work by Everett Hatstat of Albany. An Aug. 23 wedding is planned.

W.W. I BARRACKS AUXILIARY

The World War I Barracks Auxiliary #2943 met at the American Legion Home on Vernon Street July 11. Originally scheduled as a picnic at the Riverside Picnic Area, the location was shifted due to cold and windy weather.

Myra Stevens and Frances Bennett gave an interesting report on the State Convention at Farmington in June.

The following were elected as state officers: Frances Bennett, guard; Maude Danforth, assistant guard; Myra Stevens, historian; Bessie Pope, Americanism; Hilda Donahue, patriotic instructor.

It was reported at the convention that the Bethel Hospital and Welfare Report was outstanding.

The next meeting will be at the Riverside Picnic Area preceded by a picnic lunch. In case of rain the picnic will be held at the American Legion Home.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

Blanche Bennett has returned to Freeport after spending a month on Charlotte Cole's camp lot. Doris Mills came Sunday for a week's stay on the lot, and then Barry and Marie Mills of Burnt Hills, N.Y., will be coming in on the 27th of July for a two weeks stay.

Mary Mills of Bolster's Mills came Friday evening to spend a few days with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, and attend Mollycodd Day in Bethel.

Harry and Margery Swan and Todd have been camping on the Rowe-Swan camp lot at South Pond since July 3. They were expected to return home the 20th. Bruce and Debbie Swan with children, Stacey and Josh, and Jeff and Dorothy Swan with children Rebecca and Douglas have visited from time to time at the lot.

Joe Gross and Cindy Lord with Troy and Kelly are spending this week camping up country. Last year they had to come home early due to rain. We wish them better weather this week.

The North Pond Sailing Association held its second regatta Saturday, the 12th, at Harpswell. Warren Galway of Harpswell won all three races. A shore dinner was enjoyed after the races by the goodly number in attendance. On July 27 the races will be held on North Pond at 1 p.m.

The Locke Mills Union Church will hold a supper for the benefit of the winter general fund on Saturday, July 26, at 5:30 p.m. at the Sunday School annex.

The Greenwood Historical Society will sponsor an old time dance Saturday July 26 at 8 p.m. at the town hall. Take in the church supper and the dance and you will have an evening to remember!

Birthdays during July include Lora Noyes on July 8th and Lorraine Pfaudler on July 13. On Mrs. Pfaudler's birthday, Charlotte Cole had dinner with Vera Cross and Gladys Jordan at their home and then they went to see Mrs. Pfaudler where Charlotte played "Happy Birthday" to her. Also there were Marion Swan and Barbara Wakefield who had come to visit and Mrs. Pfaudler's daughter, Ann Cross, her granddaughter, Noreen, and several great grandchildren.

Marjorie Neville is spending some time at her camp on Twitchell Pond.

Margery Swan had a check up just recently and her doctor says she is recuperating nicely and has scheduled no further visits. She just has to continue to take it easy for awhile.

NEWS FROM BETHEL AREA

Health Center

The staff at the Bethel Area Health Center would like to thank Dave Denison, our commentator at the bed race, for donating his time and expertise on our behalf.

Thanks also to our judges, Dan and Julie Hart and Ann Roy for their efforts in judging the stations in the race.

Most of all, our thanks to the BEARS and Tri-Town Rescue for once again entering the competition. Next year, hopefully, a few other organizations may compete. It was a lot of fun and we hope that everyone enjoyed themselves.

Vicki and Pete Rackliffe did their usual spectacular job in arranging the frog jumping contest. All sizes and shapes of frogs entered the race this year and as usual they were hilarious to watch.

Our float workers, Florence Merrill, Tamara Payne, Mary Myers and our participants Chris Chapman, Keith Clanton, Kristen Powell, and Mathew Bean did a fine job for us, as did our driver, Neal Cohen.

Mollycodd Day 1986 is now history. With such excellent competition in the parade, I guess we will have to start three months ahead in order to get back in the race! Congratulations to all the winners. You richly deserve your awards and we intend to keep trying to win a prize. See you all next year.

Ministries at the home of Rev. Lyle Van Horn in Mexico Tuesday evening.

Frances and Deanna Davis of Newry visited Lorraine Mills at her home on Wednesday. Deanna is starting to walk around her playpen now and she and my dog hold a mutual admiration party over the rail of the playpen. Cute.

CARD OF THANKS

Thank-you to all the people who helped make our float a success! Mark and Charlotte Bennett, Timmy Carter, Lynn Baker, Dave Denison, Martha Gammon, Melody, Garrett and Leah Bonnama, Jenny Mae and Ryan Wheeler, Alex Gillies, Joyce and Denise Gauthier, and a special thanks to "Miss Liberty" Barbie Bennett.

Thank-you, Mary Jo and Ginger Kelly Maine Street Realty

Low mortgage rates are making refinancing so attractive that some lenders are swamped as homeowners and new buyers are rushing to get new fixed-rate mortgages. Loan centers and appraisers are working 7 days a week.

Compromise: veneer plaster walls offer the advantages of plaster walls with the installation speed and ease of drywall. Seamless layers of plaster are troweled over drywall panels, adds about 10 percent to cost.

How to get light from a window when you don't want the view: hang a pleated shade that draws up from the bottom.

First aid for a sliding door that jumps the track: examine the track and straighten bent areas with pliers and/or hammer, make sure inside of track is clean and unobstructed.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society
Here is William Thackeray's description of a woman's debut in the mid 19th century—
"Mrs. Rawden Crawley's debut was...very brilliant. She arrived very late. Her face was radiant; her dress perfect. In the midst of the great persons assembled, and the eye-glasses directed to her, Rebecca seemed to be cool and collected... Numbers of the men she knew already... She spoke French perfectly... her manners were fine, and her air distingue. Fifty would-be partners thronged round her at once and pressed to have the honor to dance with her, but she said she was engaged, and only going to dance very little... She vowed that it was a delightful ball; that there was everybody that every one knew, and only a very few nobodies in the whole room."

The Adult Learning Center, held on Tuesday evenings at Telstar Regional High School, was highlighted this week when Bruce Abbott passed his GED exam. Bruce has been working toward this goal since last fall, and plans to use his GED to seek further schooling. Two new students came to the center last week to seek help with writing resumes and to discuss resources available for job-seeking. Martha Martin has signed on as a volunteer with the Adult and Community Education program and will be taking the Tutor Training course this fall to prepare for helping out at the Learning Center. The Learning Center welcomes new students from 6:30-9:30 on Tuesdays until Aug. 12. Anyone who would like to help with basic skills or would like to take the GED Practice Test is welcome.

The Stephen Powell Wildlife Management Area on Swan Island will be the site for the second straight year for testing of Junior Maine Guides.

Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Glenn H. Manuel said the testing program will be held this year from July 28 to Aug. 1. He said the use of the unique island facility, which has a primitive camping site and harbors a population of deer, nesting bald eagles and other wildlife, is being donated to the Junior Maine Guides program by his department.

The Junior Maine Guide Testing Camp was established in 1937 by the Maine legislature. Candidates to the camp receive their training at private summer camps, then attend the camp to have their prowess tested in such outdoor skills as map and compass use, fire-building, canoeing and tree and plant identification.

Graduates of the program receive a certificate signed by the Commissioner of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

SWOAM to honor Maine tree farmer

The Western Maine Chapter Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine (SWOAM) is planning a field day on Saturday, Aug. 2, to honor Clark Bartlett of East Bethel for the outstanding management of his woodland and tree farm. The festivities will take place on Mr. Bartlett's 600 acre farm, which is largely forested, and has been certified as a Maine Tree Farm.

In addition to SWOAM's honoring Mr. Bartlett, he will be presented an award as Maine's Outstanding Tree Farmer of the Year. American Tree Farm Officials, Maine Farm Bureau representatives, Maine Forest Products Council and others will be on hand to participate in the presentation.

Of particular interest is the fact that parts of the land has been in the Bartlett family since 1780, certainly one of the few woodland parcels still owned and managed by the same family since early colonial times.

Following the award ceremonies, SWOAM will conduct tours of Mr. Bartlett's land, showing his excellent management procedures as well as an exceptional woods road system, built and maintained by himself. Also SWOAM will have their usual and varied demonstration and site presentations ranging from wildlife management, through tree identification and woods road layout, to a land boundary and property line workshop.

The time is 9 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 2. The public is invited, coffee and doughnuts provided and some shelter in case of rain. Festivities will last until

Fire Department initiates 'jaws-of-life' fund drive

The Bethel Fire Department kicked off its fund-raising drive to raise $11,000 to purchase the "Jaws-of-Life" rescue apparatus with a series of demonstrations at the fire station on Mollycokett Day.

The device, which consists of a portable power unit and hydraulic pump to operate shear and spread accessories, allows rapid access to the interior of wrecked vehicles.

Members of the fire department showed how the "Jaws-of-Life" can quickly open doors, shear steering columns, and remove car roofs. Cars were furnished by Gaudreault's Repairs, and Wilson's Garage and Auto Body.

A bucket was available for cash contributions. Initial donations were received from the members of the Bethel Fire Department, G.O. Hayes, Dave Brown Carpentery, and Dr. and Mrs. Lennie Shaw. After the first day the total in the "Jaws-of-Life" fund was $1,218.77.

around 2 p.m. so bring a lunch or purchase one from the 4-H lunch wagon. Mr. Bartlett's farm can be reached via the East Bethel Road from Locke Mills, Rumford Road from Rumford Corner off Route 232, or the Middle Intervale Road to East Bethel Road out of Bethel. Watch for signs.
